Dear JCA Members,

There are moments in the life of a community institution when you can feel momentum building. It is when hard work, vision, and collective generosity converge to shape something lasting. This is one of those moments for the Jewish Community Alliance.

Adam Chaskin

Our campus renovations are well underway, and every day we see tangible progress. Walls are being reimagined, spaces are being modernized, and infrastructure is being strengthened, not simply for aesthetics, but for purpose. These improvements represent thoughtful stewardship of your investment and a long-term commitment to serving our community. We are not just refreshing a facility; we are building capacity, accessibility, and opportunity for generations to come.

Renovation, by its very nature, requires patience. Change can be inconvenient. It can disrupt routines. But growth rarely happens without some degree of discomfort. What sustains us is the clarity of the JCA mission and our shared belief that we are planting seeds for tomorrow. The spaces we are shaping today will host swim lessons, early childhood learning, senior programs, cultural gatherings, wellness initiatives, and countless moments of connection that strengthen Jewish life in Jacksonville.

At the same time, we are thrilled to continue elevating the cultural vibrancy of our community. The JCA is proud to present Jacksonville's Jewish Cultural Arts Festival, a celebration of creativity, heritage, and shared experience. This festival is not simply an event; it is a statement about who we are: a community rooted in tradition and energized by artistic expression.

We are especially excited that Matisyahu will headline our opening night on April 11. His performance promises to be a powerful kickoff, as an evening that brings people together through music that bridges identity, faith, and culture. It is an extraordinary opportunity for our community to gather in celebration and pride. Keep reading, the festival lineup of films, visiting authors, and performances are listed on page 8.

As we look around at the construction progress and ahead to the many milestones on our calendar, I am reminded that the JCA's strength has always come from its members. I hope you will join us this season to experience all we have happening. Your engagement, your generosity, and your belief in this institution make it all possible.

We are building more than renovated spaces. We are cultivating connection. We are investing in continuity. We are planting seeds that will flourish long into the future.

Thank you for being part of this journey.

With gratitude,

Adam Chaskin
